In the meantime the addition t the colony has to be taken over with a thora in its side, in the shape of the main tenance of native rule in Kowloon city, and an unsatisfactory boundary on the north. It appears to be in contemplation, also, to raise revenue in the new territory by the discreditable system of farming. By one of the Bills to be introduced in the Legislative Council, the Governor-in-Council is authorised to make rules for farming out the right to sell or otherwise deal in "spirits, opium, salt, or any other com-"modity whatever." We trust the Legislative Council will not pass this law, or, if it be passed, that His Excellency and the Executive Council will refrain from making any such rules, and will resort only to reputable means for the raising of

Barring the defects alluded to in the fore. going paragraph, the arrangements with respect to the new territory are such as we think will meet with public approval. The administration to begin with is to a mount to little more than supervising local hodies and protecting life and property, but the new territory is to be considered an integral part of the colony, and as its resources and requirements become better known, necessary legislation will be passed. It is apparently hoped that there may be mineral wealth to be developed; roads are to be made; and the Hon. J. H. STEWART LOOK-HART, in his report, mys the construction of | Carroll," by one of his Alices, will be read with a railway between Canton and Kowloon interest by admirers of the author of "Alice in would greatly aid the development of the new territory, that in the event of a main line being constructed it would be advisable to cetablish branch lines, and " It has also "been suggested that, even if the Canton-"Kowloon line be not established at once, "light railways should be constructed in the develop it and increase its population by "be the first requisite and should boat-"tended to as soon as possible." In Mr. LOCKHART'S report or which the hon. gentleman may be complimented will be found references to the various industries of the district as they exist at the present

Each village is to have what will practically be its own Sanitary Board, and the Governor is instructed to refer to the Federated Malay States for precedents on this point. In the Socretary of State's dospatch we also have an admission that the Banitary Board is the best machinery for dealing with the sanitary affairs of Hongkong. All danger of the diesolution of that useful body may now therefore be considered at an ond and doubtless we shall shortly see its reconstruction upon more popular lines undertaken. There is something of cloven boof, however, in the suggestion that the Sanitary Board, though the best machinery for Hongkong, is not suited for the direction of sanitary matters in a territory extending over 376 square miles. There must be some central authority in sanitary as in other matters, and the Sanitary Board would form the heat authority; it might hold a similar relation to the village and district Sanitary Boards that the Local Government Board holds to the local sanitary authorities in England.

Another important question is that relation to the Chinese Customs. CHAMBERLAIN says that no time should be smuggling into China and the collection of the Chinese Customs duties on opium. "You will see," he writes to the Governor, "that Her Majesty's Government have come "to the conclusion, which—if I understand "right-is your own conclusion also, that "the only satisfactory solution of this question " will be the establishment of some system "whereby the Chinese Customs duties on "opium imported into China from Hong "kong, including the newly-added 'territory, shall be entirely collected by the "Government of Hongkong." While this subject is under consideration it is to b hoped that some means may be arrived at for settling once for all the outstanding difficultics in connection with the Customs, not now be replaced in stock at the price. only in relation to opium but to trade in 26.-In dealing with the question of what laws of Hongkong should be extended to the new territory I have not made any reference to the administration of the criminal law. In this matter I should wish you to be guided generally by the recommendations made by Mr. Lockbart agree with Mr. Lockhart that the existing village organizations should be maintained and utilised and I approve of the immediate appointment of an itiperant Magistrate as suggested. I shall be glad if you will at once select an officer for provisional appointment in this capacity. An appeal should lie to the itinerant Magh rate from the village tribunals, and from him to the Governor, this latter course being preferable in my opinion to an appeal to the Supreme Court. An Ordinance will be necessary, framed on the lines of the Ceylon Ordinance No. 24 of 1889 to legalise and define the powers of the village and district Council or tribusals.

27 .- I have now touched upon what uppears to me to be the most important questions for your immediate consideration. You will gather from what I have said that while I differ from some of the conclusions at which Mr. Lockbart has arrived. We make the following extracts from it :-Rice is the principal article of cultivation and the quality of this product is so highly esteemed that a quantity of it is exported to Ban Francison for the use of the Chinese resident there. There is also a large area of land devoted to the growing of sugar cane, indigo, hemp, ponnuts, potatoes of different varieties, yam, taro, bouns, sessminm, pumpking, and regetables. Experiments are now being made to ascortain whether the cotton plant will flourish in the newly-lessed area, and there seems to be no reason, as far as soil and climate are concerned why there experiments should not anoceed. "THE SILVER KING" AT THE THEATRE ROYAL,

At the Theatre Royal on Saturday evening large andlence witnessed the performance of the celebrated drame "The Silver King." by Mesure, Dallas and Musgrave's dehmatic company. For some time after its production. The Silver King." was all the rage in the old country; "The Spider," "Father Christmas and "The Duke of York" were characters which one heard continually handed about. The story deals with the trials and successes of Wilfred Denver. At the outset he has been

cendered desperate by heavy gambling losses and sooks to drown in drink the remorse with which he is assailed when he thinks of his wife and children. His wife endeavours to get him nway from the bor of the Wheat Sheaf, and while she is thus engaged anold lover, Geoffrey Ware, appear, and thunting her sneeringly, remarks on the condition of her husband. The latter, enraged, follows him into the street awearing he will kill him. Heaccordingly makes for Gooffrey Ware's room in Hatton Gardon. Captain Skinner, known as the "Spider," and his accomplices, however, having secured admission with the assistance of Ware's clerk, are on the scene before him and are busy tampering with the safe when he appears. He is at once rendered unconscious by a chloroform pad, but the burglars are again intermpted, this time by Gooffery Ware, who in the struggle which ensues, is shot. When Denver comes to his senses he is horror-struck on finding Ware's dead body lying within a few feet of him, and dimly remembering his threat of the previous evening concludes that in his drunken fromzy he must have carried it out. Going home his wife on treats. him to escape, advising him to drive to the rail. way station, take a ticket for some place a long distance away, but to leave the train en route and make the best of his way abroad. Donver does this, leaving the house just in time to escape the police. In loaping from the train he aprains his ankle, and it is with the greaton difficulty that he disguised as a sailor, drage himself to the Chequers, a country inn, where he learns that the train he had left had met with an accident, and that it is assumed that he is among the killed. Getting away he amasses a large fortune in the silver mines, and bosomes known far and wide as John Franklin, the" Sil ver King." Returning to his country he finds his wife struggling with poverty, the money he had sout to her having gove astray. The police also got wind of his return, and a warrant is taken out for his arrest, but before it can be executed the real murderer of Geoffrey Ware is disclosed, through the " Dake of York" turning Queen's

Mr. Henry Dallas impersonates the Silver King in a manner which might be expected from an actor of his ability, whilst, as the swell mebsman, Captain Skinner (the "Spider"), and Eliah Coombe ("Father Christmas"), Mr. Kenyon Musgrave and Mr. D. Munro ato distinct successes. The part of Harry Crocketh, Geoffrey Ware's clork, who is subsequently dubbed "the Duke of York" by the burglaring fraternity into whose clutches to has unwittingly fallen, is taken by a local smateur, Mr. C. T. Robinson, and it must be admitted that it loses nothing at his hands. Mr. J. B. Ferrell makes a capital Daniel Jaikes, the faithful old servent, and Miss Madge Grey as Nellie Denver, and Miss Barbara Fenn a Olive Skinner are all that could be desired. The other characters are also in good hands. The "Silver King" will be repeated to-
